SUPPLEMENT TO REPORT NO.

[redacted]

1. Information available to the Continental Operations Department[1] indicates that the Chinese Communists are not expected to attack Indochina until April 1952.

2. The Department has no information on Communist plans for the invasion of Taiwan.

25X1A

[redacted] Comment. For previous information on Communist intentions toward Indochina and Taiwan, see [redacted].

25X1A

1. [redacted] Comment. This organization has been variously known as the Mainland Work Committee, the Mainland Recovery Committee, the Mainland Combat Section, and the Office of Mainland Operations. See [redacted] and references. The Continental Operations Department (COD) was set up in late 1950 to coordinate Nationalist guerrilla activities on the mainland; it is relatively inexperienced as far as intelligence is concerned. It has no known intelligence system, although it does have a small G-2 section. Technically under the Ministry of National Defense (MND), the COD has a degree of access to intelligence procured by the MND. The COD is considered to be an instrument of CHIANG Ching-kuo, although CHENG Kai-min is its legal head.
