1. Mr. Jackson asked each of the Assistant Directors to make a check on the individuals currently employed by their offices as consultants and to report who they are and why CIA needs them as consultants. He stated that the Deputy Director for Administration had an over-all list and could aid in this checking. He stated that the list should include consultants who had been used on one-time operations.

2. Mr. Reber presented a paper on requirements which recommended that O/IC provide the coordination necessary in developing guide-type requirements and in reconciling difficulties arising on support requirements. It was further recommended that a CIA Requirement Committee be established. After discussion the proposals submitted by O/IC were approved and Mr. Jackson asked that a report be submitted by AD/IC within a month on the question as to whether there should be an IAC Requirements Committee.

3. Colonel Baird reported that Robert Ramspeck had been appointed Chairman of the Committee to decide on government participation in area studies by the Social Science Research Council. Colonel Baird will represent CIA and present to the Committee the general area and language needs of the agency.

Colonel Baird presented the schedule for the indoctrination course starting on 4 June. He pointed out that nominations had not been received for all of the slots that CIA had been allocated in the Naval Intelligence School.

4. Mr. Kirkpatrick reported that a memorandum on Naval Intelligence School which had been disseminated to the Assistant Directors on 9 April had been inadvertently handed to another agency. Mr. Jackson asked each of the Assistant Directors to determine whether any of their offices were responsible for this.

5. Mr. Wisner reported that the State Department was extremely interested in a research project on the subject of Soviet slave labor. This project had been discussed by the Psychological Operations Coordination Board which had requested CIA's report. They believe that it holds value as: (1) intelligence support for psychological warfare;

(2) possible foreign intelligence information that may be developed;
(3) support for the resolution recently made by the Economic and Social Conference in Santiago calling for a survey of Soviet slave labor; and
(4) because the Department of the Treasury wants information on manufacturing for Soviet slave labor that might lead to import controls. It was agreed that the matter should be taken under study by O/RR.

6. Dr. Millikan requested that AD/IC call a meeting on intelligence support for the Office of International Trade on export control activities. Mr. Heber called a meeting (3 o'clock this date) of the representatives of all interested offices.
