SUMMARY

A training area is located 34 kilometers (km) north of Ryazan on the north side of the Oka River (Figure 1).

The installation covers approximately 12,800 acres and contains a possible bivouac area and 2 other bivouac areas with a total of 5 barracks, 25 quarters, and 14 support buildings; a possible ammunition storage area with 3 possible bunkers; and 2 vehicle parks. Training facilities include 3 athletic fields, 2 small-arms firing ranges, wheeled-vehicle and tracked-vehicle driver-training areas, a tank/assault-gun firing range, a field artillery training area, a combined-arms field training course, 2 probable infantry field training areas, and an area of unidentified ground scarring (Figure 2).

The installation was covered by 7 KEYHOLE missions between August 1960 and October 1964. Comparative analysis reveals no significant changes to the facilities; however, a moderate rate of activity was observed.
