11. At the moment, the most promising possibility on the inside of the village would seem to be John Terpak's contact with Yakov KUTSHENKO as indicated in cable traffic. TERPAK will attempt to get KUTSHENKO to go shopping some evening soon during which time TERPAK will introduce to the target AECASSOWARY/29 as a journalist with good Ukrainian and some Italian. Actually AECASSOWARY/29 will merely attempt to assess this man and if the matter advances sufficiently far, the undersigned will probably step in for the recruitment pitch.

19. AERODYNAMIC. The entire AERODYNAMIC team is here under the leadership of AECASSOWARY/2. The latter, contrary to his generally pessimistic outlook on life while in Washington, seems to have been rejuvenated and is deploying his forces with vigor and zest. As yet there has been no contact with KRAYNANYTSIA nor is there any indication that the latter is in Rome except the work of George HARGSTELJ who has now departed. Seemingly good contacts have been made with two journalists Victor KOSHEVOY and Georgiy PRITSA. These are of course only political and 'talking' contacts and it is highly doubtful that the matter will advance beyond merely the talking stage. Contact had also been established with a group of five members of the younger generation /late twenties/, but these individuals were apparently very closely watched by the 'guardians' so that the conversation did not attain real political or operational depth.

St. Joseph's College. AECASSOWARY/2 informs that no serious activity can be planned on in conjunction with this organization. He further states that the individual priests of this organization are so completely terrorized by the upper echelons of the Vatican that no independent action can even be thought of, let alone undertaken.
