Thank you Adam. I appreciate your response.

My management team and I are definitely interested in pursuing the option of creating a Facebook page. There are still a few things I have to work out on my end before actively engaging, but it shouldn't be too much longer. I'll advise my management that facebook.com/CIA is reserved for our use.

As for fake CIA pages, I know there was one out there a few weeks ago. I'm not sure if one of my colleagues took action on that. If I learn they haven't, I'll be in touch to request its removal.

Thank you again. I look forward to working with you.

Many thanks,

Hi [Redacted]

The email below is generated when a sub-agency request to create a facebook page from the apps.gov website that the GSA has setup.

Facebook has negotiated an agreement with the Federal Government to allow them to use facebook, its available on apps.gov and I've attached it. Once signed, it covers all sub-agencies and organizations like the CTC. The CIA has not yet signed this agreement though 29 other federal agencies including the DNI, DOJ, and the White House have. We'd love to have the CIA sign the agreement as well. Note that signing the agreement doesn't mean you have to create a facebook page, it just allows your agency to create one if they want to.

We have reserved facebook.com/CIA for when you do create a page and are happy to work with your office to remove any fake CIA pages that may be out there.

Are you familiar with the request made below? Was this an official effort to reserve a CIA page name for our use at a later date? If you could provide me guidance/feedback, I'd appreciate it.

Sincerely,
