[Redacted] Jami wants to go with no backbenchers. She has briefed the Vice President a lot and Libby attends the twice weekly deputies lunch that she attends with the DDCI.

Hi [Redacted]:

(b)(3)
(b)(6)

The last time the VP and Libby came over for a session, I jumped in on (only) one occasion because an answer he got to a question he raised barely got at the tip of an iceberg of an issued he'd discussed with me at least three times. I asked a follow-up question I am certain prompted the information for which he was fishing.

[Redacted] and I have a grasp of the VP's and Libby's interests--and their body language--no one else in the room will have other than them. This context makes us useful to them and to our colleagues here as we subsequently interpret how the session went.

(b)(3)
(b)(6)

Please flag my thoughts with the DDI and zing [Redacted] and me an update email (earlyish if you can) regarding whether she'd still prefer to go with no back-benchers.

DDI asked that there be no backbenchers for these sessions. Attendees should be limited to briefers and DDI only.

Hi [redacted]:

(b)(3)
(b)(6)

1. It's my recommendation that we have only one briefing team in the room at a time.
2. [redacted] and I plan to back bench through both sessions, leaving the VP's group, the DDI, and the briefers at the table.

(b)(3)
(b)(6)

But of course the vote that matters on all of this (including briefers' names) goes to the DDI's office and others. [redacted]--over to you.

Thanks [redacted] I'll start working on that. I need to know about how many people will be in and out of there throughout the briefings so we can order the appropriate amount. We'll probably just go with some fruit, cookies and drinks.

(b)(3)
(b)(6)

That brings up another subject. Will this be done like in the past where we have the actual briefers and "back benchers". Will all the briefers be in the C.R. for the whole time, or will the second set be "waiting in the wings" in the hallway? I'll need a list of all briefers and also back benchers as in the past so we can do tent cards for them.

Thanks!

Hi [redacted]

(b)(3)
(b)(6)

Refreshments would be a great idea; you'll make a friend for life if you lay a Starbucks latte (grande skim/decaf) on the VP. Really. Same for Libby.

Would you like refreshments for the VP's visit on Wednesday? If so, I'll work with the ADR in getting that provided. We know he likes Starbucks coffee, so we'll have that ready for him and Mr. Libby when they arrive.

Thanks

Hi [Redacted]

(b)(3)
(b)(6)

The strawman has not evolved; it still represents the planned showtime. I recommend not sending over all the detail in the strawman--the VP knows what's coming. You could probably get away with [Redacted] for the agenda. If the VP's handlers need more, I'll offer to draft and email the essence of both sessions in shortened versions of the strawman (to convey to the VP he's getting what he asked for).

The call with the VP's office was short and this sounds like the coordination will be easy (since we just did this a few months ago). She confirmed that the visit will be 02 October from 1400-1600 hrs. She asked that we send over a fax today with a list of briefers names and titles for the two sessions. Can you get that to me? Do you have a draft agenda worked up as well that can go over. I've seen [redacted] strawman, but don't know if it has evolved, or if you'd prefer not to give them all that detail in advance. I can fax anything over to her [redacted] that should/can go.

(b)(3)
(b)(6)
(b)(6)

I gave her my name and number as the POC, but let her know that DI, OS, Protocol, and others were hard at work on the issue as well, and that I could put her office in contact with any of you she needs. Please send me green and black lines for POC's in DI, OS, Protocol, and anyone I've forgotten. Thanks.

I got a call last night from [redacted] in the VP's office asking for a phone call from the POC for the VP's visit next week. I'm not familiar with our standard practices on this--is the POC usually from Protocol/EXDIR's office ?
