Angola: Holden Roberto may lose the leadership of the Angolan nationalist movement as a result of increasing pressure from other Angolan nationalists to merge his Angolan Peoples' Union (UPA) in a united front with the Communist-backed Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola (MPLA). Roberto reportedly is setting up a "national front" with a minor Angolan nationalist party in an effort to divert this pressure, and hopes to follow this up in a few days with the formation of a provisional government. The "national front" reportedly will refuse to cooperate with the MPLA, although it will invite other organizations to join with it. MPLA leaders, however, are said to be confident that Roberto's standing in the party has been undermined by the recent defections of some of his lieutenants, and believe that a new group of UPA leaders, who will not oppose cooperation with their organization, is about to emerge.
