Mr. Murrin was elected president of the Public Systems Company in early 1975.

Mr. Murrin joined Westinghouse in 1951 on graduation from Fordham University and served with the transformer division, first at the Sharon, Pennsylvania plant and subsequently at the Athens, Georgia, plant. In 1959 he was appointed Westinghouse's European manufacturing representative and was headquartered in Geneva, Switzerland. In 1961 he was named general manager of the motor and gearing division, Buffalo, New York.

Mr. Murrin was elected vice-president, manufacturing in 1965, named executive vice-president of the defense and public systems group in 1971, and named senior executive vice-president in 1974. He assumed his present post in early 1975.
