II ASSUMPTIONS

a. That a completely independent detachment will be formed and stationed somewhere in Western Europe [REDACTED]

25X1X7

b. That the <sup>detachment</sup> ~~unit~~ will ~~be~~, ostensibly, <sup>be</sup> an [REDACTED] Weather Research Squadron.

25X1C8a

c. That the [REDACTED] Squadron will be manned [REDACTED] CHALICE sources, in sufficient numbers to support 4 of this type week. plus support aircraft

25X1C8a
25X1C8a

d. That Project CHALICE will supply two U-2's, as well as, necessary amount of photographic and ELINT collection equipment ~~and other~~ with required support equipment.

e. That supply support will be provided by Project CHALICE.

f. That if construction or modification of facilities to accommodate this detachment is necessary, the cost will be borne by Project CHALICE.

g. That target requirements for coverage by this detachment will be as determined jointly between appropriate [REDACTED] and U. S. Intelligence authorities.

25X1X7

h. That photographic results will be processed at [REDACTED] and copies provided to each Government as jointly agreed.

25X1A5a1

III PERSONNEL REQUIREMENTS

a. To man a detachment having the capability of launching approximately four sorties per week will require approximately 85 personnel. Depending upon whether the detachment is <sup>located</sup> ~~launched~~ at a U. S. Air Force Base [REDACTED] 25X1C8a

25X1C8a
25X1X7

[REDACTED] will determine to some extent the proportion of [REDACTED] American personnel. If the unit is <sup>stationed</sup> ~~launched~~ at an <sup>US</sup> Air Force Base, it should be commanded by a U. S. Air Force Officer and by the same token, if <sup>stationed</sup> ~~launched~~ at [REDACTED] should be commanded by [REDACTED]. In both cases the No. 2 Military Officer should be from the opposite service.

25X1C8a
