Dear Jim:

It is nice to hear from you after all this time, and I am interested to hear that you are working with the Department of the Army. From time to time in the last few years I have had occasion to do business with the new General Counsel, John Adams.

I had a pleasant talk with [redacted] and have forwarded her file to the Personnel Office with the request that they do what they can. As I told her, my Office is staffed to its ceiling and is a very small one.

If I make one of my rare trips to the Pentagon, I shall try to stop by. Meanwhile, Jeanne sends her best regards.

Very truly yours,
