Declassified in Part - Sanitized Copy Approved for Release @ 50-Yr 2014/01/06 : CIA-RDP61-00357R000500330001-0 DATE TRANSMITTAL SLIP you indicated the muning that Alex, Lamattocking a tue bille dealing wit STAIROM: ROOM NO. BUILDING EXTENSION

Declassified in Part - Sanitized Copy Approved for Release @ 50-Yr 2014/01/06 : (47) CIA-RDP61-00357R000500330001-0 Y BE USED.

Passport Bill Bucks Basic American Rights

Assistant to the publisher of The Washington Post, Paull is a member of the District bar and formerly was administrative assistant to Chief Judge Bolitha J. Laws of District Court.

WHEN PRESIDENT EISENHOWER

WHEN PRESIDENT EISENHOWER asked for new passport legislation last week, by implication he was inviting Congress to attempt an extremely delicate legal operation.

In effect, his request was that Congress give the State Department authority to limit the traditional ilberty of Americans to travel abroad. To write such a law that will be declared constitutional is a formidable task.

Involved on the one hand is the Nation's right to protect its security and Involved on the one hand is the Nation's right to protect its security and to conduct its foreign affairs without interference. On the other is the citizen's right to go as a free man wherever he pleases.

Anglo-Saxon Roots

THE STATE DEPARTMENT has long contended that it possesses the broadest powers over the issuance of passports. Its view is supported by many statements of Presidents, Attorneys General, Secretaries of State, torneys General, Secretaries of State, judges and legal scholars.

But of late, in case after case, the Department's passport policy has been buffeted and criticized severely in the courts. Only last month the Supreme Court ended all hope that without an

Court ended all hope that without an authorizing statute the State Department could act as sole judge of the fitness of an applicant for a passport. The right of an orderly citizen not involved in crime to travel in peacetime where he will is base in Anglo-time where he will is basic in Angio-Saxon law, It was set out fully in the Magna Carta, which states:

"It shall be lawful to any person, for the future, to go out of our king-dom, and to return, safely and securely, dom, and to return, sately and securely, by land or by water, saving his allegiance to us, unless it be in time of war, for some short space, for the common good of the kingdom; excepting prisoners and outlaws, according to the laws of the land, and of the people of the tial proclamation of a tial proclamation of a national emergency is still in force. It is illegal for Americans to travel overseas without a passport. The State Department contends that it must have discretion whether to issue any passport.

In his recent message on the subject to Congress, President Eisenhower set to Congress, President Eisenhower set out the broad reasons. He said the Gov-ernment needs power to deny passports where "their possession would serious-ly impair the conduct of foreign rela-tions of the United States or, would be inhumbed. The security of the United

Sweeping Affirmation

THE DIFFICULTY arises when the general principle of national security is pitted against the Bill of Rights in a specific case.

The most recent and decisive case in

Not remote recent and netwise case in volved Rockwell Kent, the artist, and Walter Briehl, a psychiatrist. Both had been denied passports after they refused to tell the State Department whether they had ever been Communists. They said the inquiry was an irrelevant intrusion into their political beliefs and corrections.

urrelevant intrusion into their political beliefs and associations.

In a 5-to 4 decision, the Supreme Court agreed with Kent and Briehl. Writing the majority opinion, Justice William O, Douglas concluded:

O. Douglas concluded:

"To repeat, we deal here with a constitutional right of the citizen, a right which we must assume Congress will be faithful to respect. We would be faced with important constitutional questions were we to hold that Congress... had given the Secretary (of State) authority to mithball assume that the constitution of the con given the Secretary for State) authority to withhold passports to citizens because of their beliefs or associations. Congress has made no such provision in explicit terms; and absent one, the Secretary may not employ that standard, to restrict the citizens' right of free movement.

movement." Not Only Communists

their activities abroad would impair our foreign relations or security.

The bill makes a finding that the "international Communist movement seeks everywhere to thwart United States policy" and is a "grave peril." Eligibility may be denied to anyone, Communist or not, who "knowingly engages in or has engaged, within 10 years prior to filing the passport application, in activities in furtherance of the international Communist movement."

If there is evidence warranting the

ment."

If there is evidence warranting the conclusion of knowing engagement in these activities, the burden is on the applicant to disprove it.

The applicant must state whether he has been a Communist Party member in the past 10 years or a supporter of the international Communist movement

ment.
A disappointed applicant has the right of review before the Passport Hearing Board. But he cannot require the State Department to produce any information which is deemed likely to have a "substantially" adverse effect upon security or foreign affairs. He gets what the Board certifies is a "fair res-yume" of the evidence. The Secretary of State makes the final departmental determination. determination.

determination.

There is provision for a review by the United States District Court for the District of Columbia, but the reviewing judge there will not be given any secret information and must rely on the "fair resume" of the Board.

Safeguards Are Scant

PERHAPS THIS LAW can work PERHAPS THIS LAW can work without injustice, but, there is no assurance that it will. There are scant safeguards against actions of State Department officials who someday might think their personal ambitions called for an excessive zeal for se-curity and a disregard of citizens' curity and a disregard of citizens rights.

There is little in the way of a standard of conduct which will deprive an applicant of a passport. No guides indicate what is or is not "inimical to the security" or what might "seriously impair" the foreign relations of the Nation.

Supposing the appointment of a venal Secretary, there is nothing to reprevent jum from finding on the basis of secret evidence that an innocant action in accord, with similar action by the Communists constituted the basis for denial of a passport. Subsequent history often changes the judg-sequent history often changes the judg-sequent history often changes the judg-

Frances C. Knight, director of the Passport Office, is shown at her desk in the group's relatively new quarters. She inherited many of the present passport diffi-culties from as far back as the 19th century.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee has scheduled hearings on the bill Wednesday. Any legislation per-mitting undisclosed informants and synopsized evidence is due to get close scrutiny.

Frances G: Knight, the present director of the Passport Office, inherited many of the 'problems involved. Although not hearly as frequently as in the past five years, the protocol-sensitive State Department has periodically found sticky situations when it came to passports.

For example, Prof. Louis Jaffe notes: in the quarterly Foreign Affairs that

Not Only Communists

The Decision's Scope was so fights.

The Decision's Scope was so of the kingdom; excepting prisoners and outlaws, according to the laws of the land, and of the people of the hation at war against us:

The Dill which the Administration at war against us:

The Dill which the Administration at war against us:

The Dill which the Administration of the House and sent up to the season of the land sent to the House and server at least until 1941. Since then, take a least until 1941. Since then, take the proposed the behind the regulations and procedures which the State Department has periodical by found sticky situations when it came to passports. No guides lation what the court had said survely in applicant of a passport. No guides to the said survely in the past five years, the protocol-sensitive denied a passport, but when he set in the quarterly Foreign Affairs that one are then off the 19th century the consult at Chefor refused passports to two "doubtful ladies" who described the principles behind the regulations and procedures which the State Department has periodical by found sticky situations when it came to passport. South on the Nobel Prize the State Department has periodical by found sticky situations when it came to passport. In the quarterly Foreign Affairs that came the quarterly Foreign Affairs that consult at Chefor refused passports to two "doubtful ladies" who described the consult at Chefor refused passport, but only after a Federal to the 19th century the consult at Chefor refused passport, but only after a Federal to the 19th century the consult at Chefor refused passport, but only after a Federal to the severely repulsed the consult at Chefor refused passports to two "doubtful ladies" who described the consult at Chefor refused passports to two "doubtful ladies" who described the consult at Chefor refused passports to two "doubtful ladies" who described the consult at Chefor refused passports to two "doubtful ladies" who described the consult at Chefor refused passports to tw golygamy should be permitted to spread the good word abroad. In recent years, Authur Miller ended his passport difficulties when In recent years, Arthur Miller to London was his quite-American desire to spend his honeymoon, with Marilyn Monroe. The State Department gave him six months to do it. Linus Pauling, the scientist, was twice denied a passport, but when he won the Nobel Prize the State Department let him go overseas to accept it.

pouches. Scientists privy to national pouches. Scientists privy to national secrets are screened intensively in security cheeks and thus would hardly be denied passports. Noisy trouble-makers can attract as much international attention with a speech in Chicago as they can, in Warsaw.

Nonetheless, disloyal Americans with passports could harm the Nation. The Secretary of State has an obvious duty to try to prevent this. But can he, without trampling on constitutional rights? The courts cannot accept anything less.

out trampling on constitutional rights? The courts cannot accept anything less. From its wording, Justice Douglas' opinion was surely not a cordial invitation to the Administration to seek legislation to maintain the State Department's position. It may well have been a warning not to try it. ______ The department: lawyers might get encouragement, however, from the fact that four justices voted to uphold the Kent and Briehl passport denials. Only one more justice need be per-Only one more justice need be per-suaded once the constitutional issue is properly before the court.