MEMORANDUM FOR: Chief, Document Division

SUBJECT : Status of ONI Indexing Project

1. Since I finished my TDY at ONI on 3 March, I have received every week approximately 20 of the more difficult Navy documents to review for consistency in use of the ISC. Late in April I began to spend 1 day a week with the ONI personnel in discussing coding and systems problems. The aim all along has been to determine when CIA could accept ONI coding for acceptance into the Intellofax system.

2. Although ONI's coding has progressed and improved, I have still felt it necessary to review some of the work before giving the green light for final acceptance of their work. ONI is having difficulty in classifying the jobs high enough in line with Air Force and CIA. At present there is 1 GS-9 (Assistant to Mrs. Young), 1 GS-7, 2 GS-5's and one Chief. Navy Classification has not been convinced that the coding operation deserves more than GS-5 rating. This has made it impossible to recruit badly needed additional qualified personnel.

3. The hardest blow was received this week with the announcement that the GS-9 was resigning effective 16 June to accept a position with private industry. This means that there is no one person to do the reviewing and to act as supervisor. There can also be no recruitment for this vacancy until decisions higher up the line are resolved.

4. My informal recommendation to Mrs. Young was that the 4 coders be temporarily detailed to CIA where the work could be closely supervised and the final product used both in the Intellofax System and in ONI's machine system. The difficulty in accepting this proposal lies in the fact that 3 of the 4 coders need to be on hand to answer questions regarding other operations in OP 923 M5 and cannot be physically away from the area.

5. Ideally CIA should send someone over to ONI again to supervise the project. Vacation schedules in our own Branch make this well nigh impossible during the summer months. ONI plans to rotate weekly the reviewing work among 3 of the coders. Some batches will continue to be sent to CIA for review and I will try to maintain a weekly visit to the Pentagon.
