

Town Topics

Indonesian Service Attaches Mark Army Day

By Marie McNair

COLONEL KAWILARANG, new Military Attache of the Indonesian Embassy, arrived in town just in time to be host with Air Commodore Soedjono, for Indonesia's Army Forces Day, celebrated yesterday afternoon at a reception at the Embassy's Chancery on Massachusetts ave.

Mrs. McNair

The colonel, who is tall and good-looking and has a beautiful wife, landed in Washington Thursday evening. Mme. Kawilarang had preceded her husband by a few days.

All four—that includes Mme. Soedjono—welcomed 200 or so guests, mostly military, and the Indonesian Ambassador and Mme. Notowidigdo, usually the Embassy's hosts, were among the guests.

Maj. Gen. Robert Schow,

Assistant Chief of Staff, USA, and Mrs. Schow came early as they were to entertain later at a dinner dance for Military Attaches and their assistants from Asia, Africa and the Pacific Ocean area, and their wives.

Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Robert Wienecke were there and also coming in for a brief stay were Marine Corps Gen. Graves Erskine and Mrs. Erskine and Lt. Gen. and Mrs. James M. Gavin.

LIEUT. GEN. Charles P. Cabell, had Mrs. Cabell with him; Jacqueline Cabell wearing a fascinating latticed cap of white swansdown. "I waited a whole day in Paris for this," she said. "I went out to luncheon, went back; went out to cocktails, went back; finally went out to dinner. And by then they had it finished."

Ambassador and Mme. Notowidigdo could speak their own language with Francis T. Underhill of the State Department, and Mrs. Underhill, who spent two years on assignment in Indonesia.

Mme. Notowidigdo was telling friends about the forthcoming fashion show luncheon of Southeast Asian fashions to be put on by ladies of those embassies for the benefit of the International Red Cross on Nov. 28 at the Sheraton-Park Hotel.

Among others there were Rear Adm. and Mrs. Charles Wilkins, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Robert Walsh and Mrs. Lucas Beau.

One of the prettiest Indonesian girls there was Mrs. Sentanu, whose husband is here to study economics at American University under a Rockefeller Foundation fellowship. They came from London and after five months here, Mrs. Sentanu thinks America is simply wonderful.

Day