

BY THE WAY

Allen Dulles, younger brother of John Foster Dulles, was at the Dum Dum Airport on Saturday on his way to Bangkok on a round-the-world survey of the political situation. Being head of the U. S. Central Intelligence Agency, Allen Dulles will have to submit a report to the National Security Council, America's top-most organisation for defence and security. If Allen Dulles cares for truth and is not particularly keen on boosting his brother, he will have to state in his report that U. S. foreign policy, as conducted and directed by the Secretary of State for about four years, has been responsible for a steady slump in American prestige and good name in Asian countries, barring, of course, the satellites.
