

The American Society for Public Administration Federal Government Accountants Association, and The Society for Advancement of Management

ANNOUNCE THE NOVEMBER MEETING OF THE FINANCIAL MANAGEMENT ROUNDTABLE

SUBJECT: How Effective is Internal Audit?

SPEAKERS: (1) Mr. Lindsley H. Noble, Deputy Comptroller of the Post Office Department

Subject: What Contribution Does the Internal Auditor Make to Top Management?
--Where does the Internal Auditor fit in the top management scheme?

(2) Mr. Robert L. Long, Director of Audits, General Accounting Office

Subject: Relationship of the G. A. O. External Audit to the Internal Audit Program of Agencies.
--What does the G.A.O. expect of the Internal Auditor?

COMMENTATOR: Mr. Frank Hally, Internal Audit Officer, District of Columbia Government

CHAIRMAN: Mr. Lowell Collins, Assistant Director, Accounting Systems Division, General Accounting Office

IMPORTANCE OF THE SUBJECT: The transition to adequate utilization of the internal audit function, and the understanding of the usefulness of this function to top management, is one of the major aspects of the growing recognition of financial management in the Federal Government. What is the relationship between internal audit and the management engineering function? How effective is internal audit in the control of agency operations? Time will be allowed for questions and discussion after the presentations.

DATE AND TIME: Tuesday, 22 November 1955, 7:30 p.m.

PLACE: Auditorium (7th floor), General Accounting Office Building, 441 "G" Street, N. W. (Use ramp on "G" Street, near 4th Street for free basement parking.)

This meeting, as all meetings of the Financial Management Roundtable, is conducted by the three sponsoring Associations as a service to the business and government agencies of the Washington area. They are therefore conducted open to the public on the fourth Tuesday of each month.
