1. I talked to [REDACTED] who reaffirmed that [REDACTED] is the only CIA contact over in the White House. As you know, [REDACTED] is Executive Secretary of the 303 Committee; but he has, on occasion, taken care of some matters for [REDACTED] which were going to the White House Staff. [REDACTED] said that the National Security Counsel hardly functions anymore and meets perhaps twice a year. Therefore, [REDACTED] felt that this was not an effective body. Tom also suggested that another route would be [REDACTED] [REDACTED] to Walt Rostow. There is no DDI contact as such with the White House except the OCI briefers who deal with the White House Staff, but this is pretty low level. His final remark, however, was that in almost every instance [REDACTED] would probably get into the act as a point of contact with the White House.
