

MAY 24 1966

Dow-Jones & Co., which publishes The Wall Street Journal, Barron's and The National Observer, and operates a news wire and book publishing enterprise, has bought a block of 70,000 square feet on Eisenhower Expressway in Chicago, where a headquarters for Midwestern operations will be built during the next three years.