

THE INDEPENDENT

February 1966

"Peace" Is Its Name But Profits Have Big Priority

This month thousands of Americans were studying a plea for money from an organization that calls itself "Peace."

Its slogan is "For humanity's sake we must devote our work to Peace."

The literature gives the person who gets it the "opportunity" to contribute $5, $10, $25 or $100.

"Peace" has refused twice to answer questions put to it by The Independent. The organization, with an address in Washington, D.C., ". . . an anti-communist, non-governmental, non-charitable, private organization of its members seeking no special privilege or status from any government. Dues are non-tax deductible."

No member names appear in the literature and attempts to secure more information have been futile.

"Peace" seems to be a forthright attempt to get your dollars for its sponsor.