PRINCETON READIES CAREERS MEETING

Juniors' Future To Be Discussed
By Six Professionals

Princeton, Feb. 27 (UPI) — Princeton University alumni will discuss their jobs with 275 juniors at the fourth annual Career conference for Juniors tomorrow.

They will discuss careers in science, government, business, teaching, the ministry, law and medicine.

Moderators of the career panels will be Arthur W. Horton of South Orange, a Bell Telephone Laboratories engineer; Lyman B. Kirkpatrick of Fairfax, Va., inspector general of the Central Intelligence Agency and Thomas Longstreth, vice-president of the Aitkin-Kynett Advertising Company of Philadelphia.

Also, Benjamin R. Jones Jr. of Philadelphia, a justice of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court; Fred B. Rogers, a professor of premedicine at Temple University's School of Medicine in Philadelphia; and the Rev. David Romig, pastor of New York City Sea and Land Church.
