CPYRGHT

TOM SHELL: "The National Student Association, through its advisory board, has ordered a complete break with the U. S. Central Intelligence Agency. The decision was reached tonight in Washington at the conclusion of a three-day policy meeting.

"After that session, NSA board chairman, Sam Brown, read a statement outlining the methods the CIA used to influence the CIA. Brown said --."

BROWN: "Prior to establishing a relationship with a staff member or officer, the Agency ran security clearance on the individual and asked him to sign a national security agreement. Individuals who signed the oath were informed violation of the oath could result in jail sentences of up to 20 years. At the time of the signing of such an agreement, the individual was not aware that he was to be told of the relationship of NSA to the CIA."

SHELL: "Sam Brown, board chairman of the National Student Association, who also said that the CIA did not exercise direct control over the NSA, but manipulated the organization by controlling the amount of money funneled into the NSA treasury."
