No Comment Needed

The following news story, published in The Washington Post on Monday, May 23, needs no editorial comment.

"On the recent (Senate Foreign Relations) committee vote to add three members to the CIA watch-dog committee, Sen. Thomas Dodd (D-Conn.), normally on the conservative side in such matters, voted with the committee majority. Some observers attribute Dodd's vote to the fact that Sen. Eugene McCarthy (D-Minn.), rather than a committee staff member solicited Dodd's proxy.

"McCarthy, author of the CIA resolution, also is a member of the Ethics Committee, now investigating Sen. Dodd's activities."
