The Hon. Richard M. Helms
Director of Central Intelligence
U.S. Central Intelligence Agency
Washington, D. C. 20505.

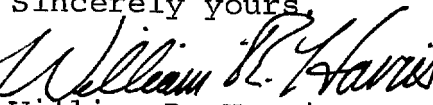

Dear Mr. Helms:

Enclosed are the first 10 of 27 sections of my forthcoming Intelligence and National Security, a Bibliography with Selected Annotations.

The enclosed pages (pp.1-90) constitute only a preliminary draft, with typos and more important, substantive errors and judgments which are open to question. I am amenable to suggested revisions and additions, for this unclassified work. It is being disseminated to students of mine in a section on "Intelligence and National Security," part of the Harvard National Security Policy Seminar; to knowledgeable scholars who write about intelligence; to various intelligence officials; and to various policy-making officials who supervise intelligence activities. Any further dissemination is still uncertain.

On an informal basis, I have been providing pre-distribution copies to [redacted] of your agency and to officials in the Office of the Secretary of Defense, for an informal review -- though all items included are unclassified.

Sincerely yours,

William R. Harris
