1. [redacted] advised me that both the Office of Logistics and the WE Division felt that they should have a secretary at [redacted] and that in fact a replacement for the present incumbent was about to depart. He assured me, however, that the young lady selected for this position was fully aware of the relative isolation of the area and was willing to accept the assignment under these circumstances.

2. I advised Matt Baird and [redacted] that after thinking more about the Logistics training film, "Interlock", which I saw yesterday I thought that the DD/P boys had a real point in that the Case Officer was made out to be a villain and the Logistics Officer, of course, the hero. I think that the same end result could be accomplished without this and that appropriate changes should be made.

3. General Cabell told me that Mr. James H. Smith, newly appointed Director of the International Cooperation Administration, had interested Mr. Dulles in [redacted] and requested that I find out as much as I could about the organization as soon as possible. I got in touch with [redacted] and asked Jack to do the necessary and report back tomorrow morning.

4. [redacted] Chief of Station [redacted] was in to talk to me about applying the new rental allowance policy to two employees who have just arrived at his Station and one who is about to arrive. Since these are very junior people he would like very much to handle their rentals in accordance with our old housing regulation. I told him that if he could make the necessary arrangements prior to the time that the new regulation was actually received in the field then I would have no objection. I also briefed [redacted] along these lines.
