In re: H.R.10099 (Rees of Kansas)

9 August, 1954

Since this bill resembles closely the legislation recently passed concerning life insurance for Government employees, it would appear that whatever pattern is established by the life insurance law would constitute a precedent in which context this measure could be judged. We understand that the Office of Personnel plans to comment rather extensively on this measure, so comment from here can be confined to the above.
