Communications to

American Embassy,
Caracas, Venezuela,
September 17, 1951.

Dear Allen:

You will remember that when I was in Washington last June I spoke to you about my friend [redacted] and his offer of services to your Department in any connection in which they might be used. 25X1A9a

[redacted] is now in New York and is planning to visit Washington in the hope that you may find time to receive him and permit him to discuss the matter with you. Needless to say, I shall appreciate anything you may be able to do. As I told you, I feel that with his excellent knowledge of Spanish - he is entirely bilingual - his background in Latin American and Spanish Affairs, and his many contacts both in Latin America and Spain, would, it seems to me, make him very well equipped for some form of work in your agency. I am suggesting to him that he arrange an appointment with you through his friend, Walter Wolf, brother of Franklin Wolf, Counselor for Economic Affairs of our Embassy here. And, I repeat, I would appreciate very much your giving him an opportunity to talk with you.

With all good wishes,

Very sincerely yours,

Norman Armour
