1. As you know, [Redacted] asked for my advice on his case. I am now advised that the Medical Office has cleared [Redacted] for full-time duty. [Redacted] tells me that he has been counseled to seek medical retirement, but states that he cannot afford to raise his family on the approximately $130 a month that will allow him. Consequently, he feels he must seek to remain in the Agency and seek to resolve any security problems that face him.

2. The doctors, of course, cannot guarantee that the strain of a Review Board might not cause another heart attack. I have discussed this with [Redacted] and he recognizes this possibility. He has asked, however, that he be allowed another month's grace to regain strength. I indicated that I thought this was a reasonable request and that I would suggest that you call him in July and reconvene the Board then. He stated that should he feel up to a Board before July, he would advise you directly.

3. I have discussed this with the DDCI and we feel that only a Board can finally resolve this case, inasmuch as any other method would probably place an equal amount of strain on the individual.
