2. You will note in the penultimate paragraph on Page 2 a statement by the Contractor that this work was let on a FP Research and Development Contract. You will recall in our previous discussions, I referred to the fact that this Contract was on a FP Supply basis; General Provisions for FP Supply Contract is in our copy of the Contract file. I have checked with the Office of Finance and determined that their copy includes General Provisions for a FP Research & Development Contract. Since there is an apparent conflict, I would appreciate your comments as to your intent and the intent of [REDACTED] at the time of negotiation of the Contract, i.e. whether the provisions of R&D or Supply type Contract prevail.
