Dear Wil:

I have received a copy of [REDACTED] report on his discussions with you and am pleased to note that all seems to be in good order.

Attached are copies of letters being sent to the following addressees explaining your responsibilities to us.

I would like to especially call your attention to the portion of the attached letters cautioning our contractors against discussing information with you relating to contracts they may have with other components of the Agency. This is an area of some sensitivity and should such an occasion arise please instruct the contractor personnel concerned that you have been directed to restrict your attention to those contracts between only our component and them and that you are not interested in discussing other contracts. This is a standard procedure; however, contractors have been known to depart inadvertently from approved procedures.

I feel that your services as an extension of our technical contract monitoring will prove to be of considerable value both to our office and to the contractors concerned. In addition, such new contacts as you can make, under the instructions set forth by [REDACTED] should provide valuable information in addition to that which our own representatives can acquire during the limited time that they have available for such trips. Should questions or problems arise please do not hesitate to contact me.

Very truly yours,

[REDACTED]
