Objectives: FROM ON II Process Research
Image Interpretation Research Program

The Center's photointerpretation and photogrammetric processes, as presently practiced, and as shall be practiced in the foreseeable future, are paced by the unique visual-perceptual-cognitive capabilities and limitations of human resources. The singular goal of the Image Interpretation Research Program is to determine the relevant capabilities and limitations in an objective and systematic fashion, and to apply such information to the Center's R & D and operational activities in the spirit of promoting maximum efficiency and productivity.
