DIRECTOR	4	all 6/1	FYI The National Senior Cryptologic Course is designed "to acquaint selected senior military and civilians with the cryptologic contribution to Command Staff and policy making functions. As the cryptologic counterpart to the National Senior Department of Defense schools, the course provides broad cryptologic training to the emerging leaders of the National Security Agency and the other elements of the U. S. intelligence community." CIA regularly receives three slots from NSA for each running of the course. The course is nine weeks long and offered twice a year. The next course running is from 19 October through 18 December 1970. At times in the past the CIA has had difficulty in filling its three slots and has not always used all three. The majority of CIA attendees in the past have been from the Office of Communication, Office of Security, and the DDP. I have been informed by OTR that NPIC could have one of these slots. The Training Selection Panel has recommended that NPIC request one position for the course beginning in October 1970 for the purpose of evaluating the value of the course to NPIC personnel.
