14. [REDACTED] LIAISON Talked with Clark McFadden, Counsel, Senate Armed Services Committee, and Edward Braswell, Chief Counsel of that Committee, about their respective travels in Europe and the Middle East. Both had contacts with our Station chiefs in various locations and were more than satisfied with the sessions they had with them. Braswell noted that the COS' he talked with seemed to be particularly shaken by the Welch assassination and were taking rather stringent precautions for their own personal safety. Braswell expressed deep concern over the revelations which have been made by Philip Agee and expressed several suggestions of action that might be taken concerning him.

Braswell and I talked about the upcoming Senate Government Operations Committee hearings on Congressional oversight of the intelligence community. We compared notes and Braswell said he was not sure where Senator John Stennis (D., Miss.) would come out on the jurisdiction, but he said that he (Braswell) will strongly recommend that Senator Stennis go on record in favor of criminal action against anyone who reveals sensitive information (intelligence sources and methods). He is not sure Senator Stennis will push this, but he will certainly recommend to the Chairman that he do so. STAT
