ORR CLASSIFICATION OF ECONOMIC ACTIVITIES AND FACTORS

I. Introduction.

This research aid is designed to serve several purposes. By providing detailed breakdowns of responsibilities in economic intelligence and by indicating assignments of these responsibilities among components of the Economic Research Area (ERA), this research aid supplements the standard statements of missions and functions, which necessarily must be general in nature. This research aid serves to acquaint new employees with the detailed organization and activities of the ERA and provides a source of ready reference to detailed assignments of intelligence maintenance and research responsibilities among Branches in the ERA. Finally, the classification set forth in this research aid is the basis for the filing system used in the Central Economic Estimates File of the Office of Research and Reports (ORR).

The Central Economic Estimates File, maintained by the Economic Accounts Section of the Publications Staff (St/PB/A), is the file for the quantitative economic estimates concerning the Sino-Soviet Bloc which are made by the various Branches of the ERA. The File includes historical time series and current estimates in the forms of annual national totals for the following categories: production and indexes of production, inventory, capacity, population and labor, economic plans, national accounts, and international trade. More detailed estimates, which are maintained in the Economic Estimates Files of the individual Branches, may be filed in accordance with the filing code used in the Central Economic Estimates File and outlined in this research aid. Procedures for servicing and maintaining the various Estimates Files are set forth in ERA Procedures No. 3, The Economic Estimates Files of the Economic Research Area of the Office of Research and Reports, 15 September 1958, SECRET/CIA INTERNAL USE ONLY.

The classification is divided into two parts, given in sections III and IV of this research aid. Section III is a list of commodities and economic activities, patterned after UN, Economic and Social Council, International Standard Industrial Classification of All Economic Activities, UNCLASSIFIED, and Executive Office of the President, Bureau of the Budget, Standard Industrial Classification Manual, UNCLASSIFIED. Section IV is a list of general economic factors (for example, population), national economic aggregates (for example, national accounts), and various economic subjects (for example, economic theory and policy). The classification is revised periodically to reflect the addition or deletion of filing categories and changes in organization and responsibilities of components of the ERA.
