Approved For Release	2005/01/31	:SEA	PF970042	29A00120	0010033-0

25X1

OCI No. 2431/63

CENTRAL INTELLIGENCE AGENCY Office of Current Intelligence 30 July 1963

CURRENT INTELLIGENCE MEMORANDUM

SUBJECT: Significant Developments in the Latin American Countries on the Counterinsurgency Critical List

3. Guatemala

a. Guerrilla activity has declined sharply during the last two weeks, probably as a result of

25X1

25X1

25X1

25X1

25X1

the Peralta government's success in eliminating a guerrilla camp and killing 11 rebels in a pitched battle in eastern Guatemala on 9 July.

it is likely that guerrilla activities will be resumed once the rebels have regrouped their forces and have acquired new recruits and assistance. That the Castro regime still considers Guatemala to be one of its prime targets for subversion was demonstrated last week in public statements made by Che Guevara and Fidel Castro. Both leaders singled out Guatemala and Venezuela for special mention as countries where "heroic fighters" were advancing the "popular revolution" in Latin America.

25X1

-2-

a. Communist guerrilla activity increased in western Venezuela during the past several days. Guerrilla units of the Communist-led Armed Forces of National Liberation (FALN) overran three small towns in Falcon State where the army and air force have staged strong counterguerrilla operations since early this year. On 28 July a guerrilla group took temporary control of Zazarida and fled with arms and ammunition. During the 25 July attack on Pueblo Nuevo, a band of sixty armed men reportedly overpowered police and occupied the town for several hours. Earlier a guerrilla band raided a police station in Curimagua. According to press reports, these	proved For Release 2005/01/31 STACK BT 9 00429A00 0000000000000000000000000000000000	25X ²
a. Communist guerrilla activity increased in western Venezuela during the past several days. Guerrilla units of the Communist-led Armed Forces of National Liberation (FALN) overran three small towns in Falcon State where the army and air force have staged strong counterguerrilla operations since early this year. On 28 July a guerrilla group took temporary control of Zazarida and fled with arms and ammunition. During the 25 July attack on Pueblo Nuevo, a band of sixty armed men reportedly overpowered police and occupied the town for several hours. Earlier a guerrilla band raided a police station in Curimagua. According to press reports, these attacks resulted in at least two guerrillas and two		25X1
a. Communist guerrilla activity increased in western Venezuela during the past several days. Guerrilla units of the Communist-led Armed Forces of National Liberation (FALN) overran three small towns in Falcon State where the army and air force have staged strong counterguerrilla operations since early this year. On 28 July a guerrilla group took temporary control of Zazarida and fled with arms and ammunition. During the 25 July attack on Pueblo Nuevo, a band of sixty armed men reportedly overpowered police and occupied the town for several hours. Earlier a guerrilla band raided a police station in Curimagua. According to press reports, these attacks resulted in at least two guerrillas and two	· in western Venezuela during the past several days. Guerrilla units of the Communist-led Armed Forces of National Liberation (FALN) overran three small towns in Falcon State where the army and air force have staged strong counterguerrilla operations since early this year. On 28 July a guerrilla group took temporary control of Zazarida and fled with arms and ammunition. During the 25 July attack on Pueblo Nuevo, a band of sixty armed men reportedly overpowered police and occupied the town for several hours. Earlier a guerrilla band raided a police station in Curimagua. According to press reports, these attacks resulted in at least two guerrillas and two in western Venezuela during the past several days. Guerrilla units of the Communist-led Armed Forces of National Liberation (FALN) overran three small towns in Falcon State where the army and air force have staged strong counterguerrilla operations since early this year. On 28 July a guerrilla group took temporary control of Zazarida and fled with arms and ammunition. During the 25 July attack on Pueblo Nuevo, a band of sixty armed men reportedly overpowered police and occupied the town for several hours. Earlier a guerrilla band raided a police station in Curimagua. According to press reports, these attacks resulted in at least two guerrillas and two	25 X1

25X1