4. Allied High Commissioners plan retaliatory canal measures:

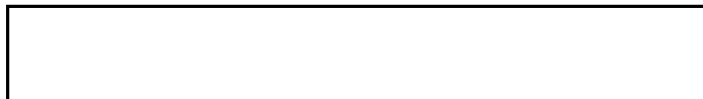

25X1A

The Council of Allied High Commissioners in Germany has authorized the Allied commanders in Berlin to impose "legal" restrictions on Soviet Zone barge traffic through the Western sectors of Berlin in retaliation for Soviet interference with Western traffic on interzonal waterways. The Council, however, has agreed that the commandants will not implement this decision "for several days" while a determination is being made of the genuineness of an East German offer to provide additional trains to move the coal backlogged by the closing of the Mittelland canal lock.

Comment: The Mittelland canal lock, closed "for repairs" on 11 January, was to have been opened on 28 February. Recent reports, however, have put off the opening to 1 April. Last July, Western retaliatory measures were partly responsible for the lifting of Soviet restrictions on Western barge traffic.
