Since the first Soviet-Afghan arms pact in 1956, Moscow has provided Kabul with almost $350 million worth of military aid, including MIG jet fighters, transport aircraft, and SA-2 surface-to-air missiles as well as a wide variety of ground forces equipment. The Afghan armed forces are now almost completely equipped with Soviet materiel. [redacted]

Cuba: [redacted]

25X1

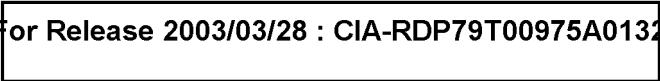

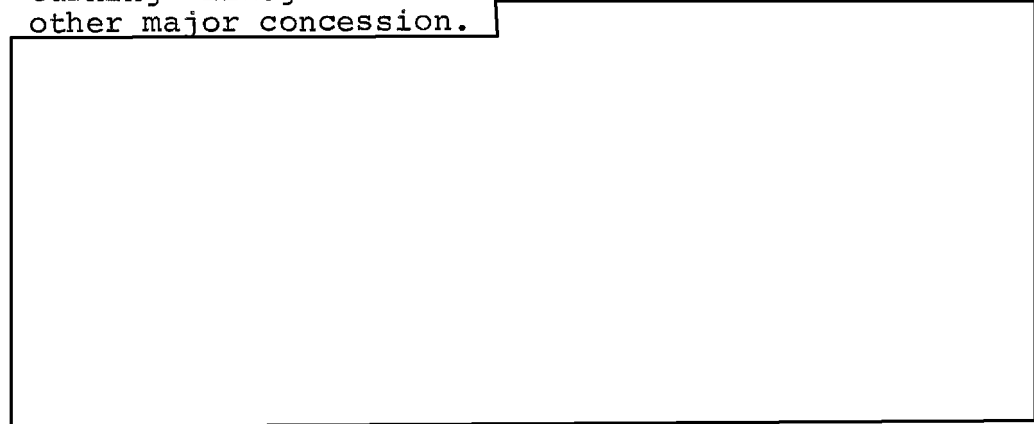

Cuba is preparing a "comprehensive" policy to discourage airplane hijackings. Foreign Minister Roa reportedly confirmed press reports that a preliminary agreement for a bilateral hijacking treaty has been reached with Mexico, and said that Cuba will soon issue a declaration which he implied might be used as the basis for other bilateral arrangements.

25X1

[redacted] Cuba is not likely to agree to a meaningful agreement unless the US is willing to reciprocate either by returning "illegal" Cuban refugees or through some other major concession.
