MEMORANDUM FOR: Director of Training
THROUGH : Chief, Intelligence Institute
SUBJECT : Course Report - Midcareer Course
No. 47, 11 May - 13 June 1975

25X1A

1. Midcareer Course No. 47 was considered by both class and staff to have been a very successful running overall. The members came together as a group moderately well during the two weeks at [REDACTED] but they were not as questioning a class as other recent Midcareerists have been. This reticence to ask probing questions changed noticeably during Phase III and by the last week some of the discussion sessions with the speakers were quite animated.

2. Phase III on World Affairs was rated highest by the class, followed closely by Phase I on the Agency. Phase II on the Intelligence Community received the lowest marks, primarily due to several speakers who did not project well. The field trip, while not receiving the highest marks, was a success in meeting its primary objective. The class met with the Director, three of the Deputy Directors (including Mr. Duckett for the first time in four runnings), and the ADDI. The class generally felt that the course had met both its stated objectives and the members' own personal objectives.

Statistics

3. The 30 members of Course 47 represented the four Directorates. Ten were from the Operations Directorate, seven from the Intelligence Directorate, seven from the Directorate of Administration, and six from the Directorate of Science and Technology. The average age of the class was 37.3 years with a range of 30 to 47. The average grade was 12.8, with 11 GS-12's, 14 GS-13's, and 5 GS-14's. The average length of service was 12.2 years with a range of 3 to 25 years.

Major Changes

25X1A 4. Major changes in this running consisted of having General Wilson, D/DCI/IC, as the first speaker at [REDACTED] five new speakers in Phase III, and the first field trip to Long Island in many years. The ratings of the new speakers ranged from poor to outstanding; this same range applied to speakers who have appeared previously. The visits to Brookhaven Lab and Grumman Aerospace were generally considered successful.

25X1A 5. A majority of the class felt that the team exercises on the first day at [REDACTED] helped both to "break the ice" and to surface some mutually felt problem areas. General Wilson's discussion of the Community the first evening got the formal presentation part of the schedule off to a good start. The rest of Phase I proceeded smoothly, with five substitute speakers (out of a total of 42) and one cancellation (Sayre Stevens). One innovation in this running occurred when Messrs. Blake and McMahon were both at [REDACTED] on the same evening--Mr. Blake to meet with our Midcareerists and Mr. McMahon with the Office Management Course. After meeting separately with these groups, a joint question-and-answer session was held [REDACTED] Speakers who rated highest with the class in this Phase included Fred Janney, Tom Holmes, [REDACTED] Zeke Zellmer, Tom Yale, Paul Walsh and Carl Duckett.

25X1A 6. Phase II's three days went precisely according to schedule. Speakers rated highest were [REDACTED] from the FBI and Colonel Granger from the NSC Staff.

25X1A 7. The two weeks of Phase III consisted of fourteen speakers and the 2 1/2 day field trip. New speakers in this Phase included Wreatham Gathright of State, Doak

8. The field trip to Brookhaven National Laboratory and Grumman Aerospace Corporation went quite well. An overwhelming majority of the class felt that the visits had met the primary objective. The briefings and tours were generally well done, interesting and informative. It was quite obvious that, particularly at Grumman, the people involved had gone out of their way to make the visit a success. It was interesting that the general manager of the Grumman production plants at Calverton, in his welcoming remarks, expressed his sincere affinity for the Agency and his regret at the spate of current publicity.

Problems

9. No major problems were encountered during this running.

Summary of Class Reaction

10. The overall reaction of the class to the Course was highly favorable. All members pointed to the association with peers as probably the biggest single benefit. Most were also appreciative of the opportunity to discuss issues with the speakers, particularly during the first two weeks at

25X1A

11. On a scale of 1 to 7, Phase I evaluations ranged from 4 to 6 with an average of 5.3. Phase II evaluations ranged from 3 to 6 with an average of 4.6 and the field trip evaluations ranged from 2 to 6 with an average of 4.9, considerably higher than last time. As noted above, Phase III received the highest evaluations, ranging from 4 to 7 with an average of 5.6.

MIDCAREER COURSE

The Midcareer Course was started in 1963 to provide an opportunity for promising, middle-level officers to broaden their professional horizons. The Course has become well-known throughout the Agency as an important aspect of career development as well as a forum for the exchange of views between senior managers from many components of CIA and course participants.

COURSE OBJECTIVES

Midcareer Course members are expected to:

1. Gain a broad understanding of the Agency as a whole, the directorates and components other than their own, and of issues of current concern to Agency management.
2. Increase their knowledge of the other elements of the Intelligence Community and the policy making process.
3. Obtain insight into national and international developments of significance that bear on the U.S. foreign intelligence effort.

PHASES

The Midcareer Course is divided into three phases which in succession emphasize each of the three objectives. You should, however, keep in mind that the range of subject matter covered in each of the phases contributes to the attainment of all three objectives.

PHASE I--THE AGENCY

The Course opens with an examination of the organization, mission, role, and functions of the Central Intelligence Agency. Most of you have spent your careers in one Directorate, some in one office or division, and even a few in one branch; therefore, our objective in this Phase is to open up the Agency to your critical inspection, to broaden your perspectives on the operations of other offices and Directorates, and to offer you new insights into how your job relates to the larger picture of the intelligence process.

Block I--Mutual Perceptions:
The Agency and Us

In the first Block of this Phase you will consider how you, as Midcareerists, see yourselves as employees and how you view the Agency. You will have an opportunity to discuss mutual problems and to suggest solutions. The role of the Intelligence Community Staff will be discussed, as will the Agency's legal and media relationships. Finally, those officers primarily concerned with personnel and security matters will discuss their perceptions of the problems of people in the Agency.

0910-1200 Team Exercise: Midcareerist Obstacles

This team exercise is designed to bring our collective thoughts, as a class, to bear on problems that we have individually perceived at one time or another. We want to identify and clarify obstacles that intrude upon individual career development or on the realization of Agency missions. We will then seek to formulate or suggest ways of overcoming them. The exercise should surface and bring into focus shared individual concerns and concerns about the Agency that we may explore throughout the entire five weeks.

Block II--Collection and Processing

Intelligence collection rests at the base of the intelligence process where the most money and manpower is expended. We begin with the area of human collection for which the Agency has a unique responsibility. We will then look at technical collection systems of today and those we can expect tomorrow and relate the impact of these on us all as intelligence officers. We will see how human and technical intelligence interact and complement each other.

Block III--Intelligence Production

The final step in the intelligence process is the production of finished intelligence. During this Block we consider four types of finished intelligence--economic, political, scientific and military.

0800-0930 Individual Presentations

0945-1045 A New Emphasis on
Economic ResearchMaurice G. Ernst
Director of
Economic Research

The deteriorating position of the US in the world economy is a problem which has had a particular impact upon the operations of the Office of Economic Research. Our guest will describe how the policy makers' interests in economic intelligence have shifted and how OER has met the new and increasing demands for finished economic intelligence. He will discuss the organizational changes OER has made, as well as the changes in its requirements for intelligence collection.

1100-1200 The Agency's Role in
Current IntelligenceRichard Lehman
Director of
Current Intelligence

One of the major missions of the Agency is to provide rapid world-wide intelligence reporting and analysis for the highest policy-making levels, including the President. The Director of Current Intelligence will relate how his Office meets this current reporting function and describe the problems, both substantive and organizational, which OCI faces in satisfying this requirement.

STATSPEC

1100-1200 Processing Intelligence:
The Role of the Central
Reference Service

Harry C. Eisenbeiss
Director, Central
Reference Service

The Central Reference Service provides a set of utilities in support of intelligence production and operations. Our speaker will discuss information flows into the Agency, the change in the flows over time, processing of the information for future retrieval, efforts to improve the system and your service.

Comptroller

You have heard that the Agency and each one of us is expected to "do more with less." Our speaker will explain what the resource picture is now and what tighter resources will mean to the Agency as a whole. He will also discuss the Agency budgeting processes--what they are now and how they operate--and discuss current planning, budgetary and management practices.

1100-1200 Financial Operations
in the Agency

Thomas B. Yale
Director of Finance

Financial operations within the Agency are complex and require careful control. Like many other offices in the Agency, our speaker's office has had to reorganize itself to do more with less. He will describe his office's objectives and discuss new simplifying and streamlining techniques and the increasing use of computers to perform routine tasks.

Whither the U.N.?

The Charter of the United Nations states that the organization was born "to save succeeding generations from the scourge of war." In the almost thirty years since its creation there have been over fifty wars in various corners of the globe. One impact of the addition of countries that achieved their independence after World War II has been to negate any expectation that the UN would always be a faithful reflection of US national interests. Yet Ambassador Charles Yost, former head of the U.S. delegation, has written that the UN is not only relevant but indispensable today. [REDACTED] will discuss the activities of the UN in the light of the dreams of 1945. He will assess its strengths and weaknesses, and evaluate the UN's likely role in the foreseeable future.

PHASE III--WORLD AFFAIRS

The international environment within which the Agency operates has undergone some important changes in recent years. National security as a national objective has required some redefinition; whereas the Soviet threat remains paramount, new powers and threats are emerging. National welfare in a world of scarce resources and keen economic competition is demanding its share of attention among US international objectives. It is the purpose of Phase III to bring you up-to-date on both the continuing and new national concerns as affected by world developments, and to suggest the impact of such developments upon the work of the Agency.
