REPORTS URANIUM-PROCESSING PLANT
AT BUKHOVO, NEAR SOFIA

According to a dispatch from Istanbul, a uranium-processing plant has been set up in Bukhovo, a village located about 25 kilometers from Sofia. The plant separates uranium from raw ore and thus alleviates the transportation problem. The final destination of the ore is not known.

The pits at Bukhovo are the only installations in the Balkans which exploit uranium deposits. During the German occupation these pits were exploited only to a limited extent. At present, the plant is said to be heavily guarded by police.

It has been generally confirmed that other uranium deposits have been found in Bulgaria.
