CENTRAL INTELLIGENCE AGENCY

INFORMATION REPORT

This Document contains information affecting the National Defense of the United States, within the meaning of Title 18, Sections 793 and 794, of the U.S. Code, as amended. Its transmission or revelation of its contents to or receipt by an unauthorized person is prohibited by law. The reproduction of this form is prohibited.

CONFIDENTIAL/CONTROL - U.S. OFFICIALS ONLY

COUNTRY	China	REPORT	25X1
SUBJECT	Port Information, Tsingtao and Dairen	DATE DISTR. 18 January 195	54
2.4	,
25X1		NO. OF PAGES 3	0574
DATE OF INFO.		REQUIREMENT	25X1
PLACE ACQUIRE		REFERENCES
A.
* * * * * * * * * * * * * * * * * * *
14.			٦
25X1
25X1
4 · .
2.
	re were very few coolies in other parts of		_
ope	rations were frequently interrupted by rai	n.
	officials performing the various inspecti iging than on previous occasions, and also nese met ashore were more affable than on ame twice to have chats and get 25X1 🖼		Manchuria and China were better
	and better paid than farmers the ticularly in Yunnan and Szechuan.	ere was a femine in the interior, hew seeds	25X1
	ginally scheduled for export were therefor		25X1
25X1 cou	ntry. no large amounts of ex	port goods would be available, least not in Dairen, for the remainder of e sections had been very poor and had to b
	uirements.	_
•	CONFIDENTIAL/CONTROL - U.	s. officials only
STATE X AR	MY x NAVY # x AIR x FBI	AEC AEC
	· · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·
(Note: Washington Di	atribution Approved Ror Release 2005/12/05 : CIA-RDF	280-00810A003300200008-5

CONFIDENTIAL/CONTROL - U.S. OFFICIALS ONLY

-2-

The three northernmost plers had no crane facilities. Three very old, small cranes of between 2.5 to 3 tons were on the southern pier at the harbor entrance. A tugboat of about 300 h.p., two new launches, an old landing craft and several junks were also moored here. side of the breakwater had a thoroughtare to a new harbor basin which had a stone pier, about 350 meters long, but no other facilities. The outer breakwater of this harbor basin appeared less strong than the old one. 8 All leading operations were performed smoothly by Chinese coolies who were their private lives and respected Chinese traditions. Despite the new regime, the higher officials stuck to their old habits. The medical officer, for example, still employed servents. Many of the rich Chinese who had their business and property expropriated, managed to earn a living as commission merchants. 5. There were jet planes flying, singly or in groups of three to six at altitudes of 4 to 6,000 meters, over the town and harbor daily. six airplanes, forming two groups, flew seeward from the northwest. There were no regular patrol flights along the coast. 6. There were jet planes flying, singly or in groups of three to six at altitudes of 4 to 6,000 meters, over the town and harbor daily. 7. There were jet planes flying, singly or in groups of three to six at altitudes of 4 to 6,000 meters, over the town and harbor daily. 7. There were jet planes flying, singly or in groups of three to six at altitudes of the northwest. There were no regular patrol flights along the coast. 8. There were jet planes flying, singly or in groups of three to six at altitudes. The outer breakwater of this harbor basin appeared less strong than the old one. 8. All loading operations were performed smoothly by Chinese coolies who were well treated, well clad, and worked hard without being spurred. There were n soldiers or warships in port except for Chinese police in khaki uniforms.	b S v p t t w wh	wilt of stone and represented a mixture of European and Asiatic styles. One of the streets were broad, well-paved and carried rickshaws, horse-drawn chicles, and a few automobiles. Silk and chineware were offered at high rices but were chiefly bought by Soviet soldiers on a barter basis. The raffic was controlled by the police who wore light khaki uniforms and white replical helmets. Unarmed and well disciplined Soviet and Chinese troops, earing olive green khaki uniforms, were on the streets. No cripples or beggares seen on the streets. The people felt armier during the Japanese occupation as the Japanese never interfered with
The three northernmost piers had no crane facilities. Three very old, small cranse of between 2.5 to 3 tons were on the southern pier at the harbor entrance. A tugbost of about 300 h.p., two new launches an old landing craft and several junks were also moored here. side of the breakwater had a thoroughtare to a new harbor basin which had a stone pier, about 350 meters long, but no other facilities. The outer breakwater of this harbor basin appeared less strong than the old one. 8. All loading operations were performed smoothly by Chinese coolies who were well treated, well clad, and worked hard without being spurred. There were n soldiers or warships in port except for Chinese police in khaki uniforms.	t r f b m	neir private lives and respected Chinese traditions. Despite the new egime, the higher officials stuck to their old habits. The medical officer, or example, still employed servants. Many of the rich Chinese who had their usiness and property expropriated, managed to earn a living as commission erchants. There were jet planes flying, singly or in groups of three to six at
The three northernmost plers had no crane facilities. Three very old, small cranes of between 2.5 to 3 tons were on the southern pier at the harbor entrance. A tugboat of about 300 h.p., two new launches, an old landing craft and several junks were also moored here. ne north side of the breakwater had a thoroughtare to a new harbor basin which had a stone pier, about 350 meters long, but no other facilities. The outer breakwater of this harbor basin appeared less strong than the old one. 8. All loading operations were performed smoothly by Chinese coolies who were well treated, well clad, and worked hard without being spurred. There were n soldiers or warships in port except for Chinese police in khaki uniforms. 9.	8	ix airplanes, forming two groups, flew seaward from the northwest. There wer
The three northernmost piers had no crane facilities. Three very old, small cranes of between 2.5 to 3 tons were on the southern pier at the harbor entrance. A tugboat of about 300 h.p., two new launches an old landing craft and several junks were also moored here. ne north side of the breakwater had a thoroughtare to a new harbor basin which had a stone pier, about 350 meters long, but no other facilities. The outer breakwater of this harbor basin appeared less strong than the old one. 8. All loading operations were performed smoothly by Chinese coolies who were well treated, well clad, and worked hard without being spurred. There were n soldiers or warships in port except for Chinese police in khaki uniforms. 9.	_
the southern pier at the harbor entrance. A tugboat of about 300 h.p., two new launches, an old landing craft and several junks were also moored here. new launches an old landing craft and several junks were also moored here. new launches an old landing craft and several junks were also moored here. new launches an old landing craft and several junks were also moored here. new launches an old landing craft and several junks were launches new narpor pasin which had a stone pier, about 350 meters long, but no other facilities. The outer breakwater of this harbor basin appeared less strong than the old one. All loading operations were performed smoothly by Chinese coolies who were well treated, well clad, and worked hard without being spurred. There were n soldiers or warships in port except for Chinese police in khaki uniforms. Possible All loading operations All loading operati side of the breakwater had a thoroughrare to a new narror basin which had a stone pier, about 350 meters long, but no other facilities. The outer breakwater of this harbor basin appeared less strong than the old one. 8. All loading operations were performed smoothly by Chinese coolies who were well treated, well clad, and worked hard without being spurred. There were n soldiers or warships in port except for Chinese police in khaki uniforms. 9.	` \	The three northernmost piers had no crane well treated, well clad, and worked hard without being spurred. There were n soldiers or warships in port except for Chinese police in khaki uniforms. 9.		acilities. Three very old, small cranes of between 2.5 to 3 tons were on the southern pier at the harbor entrance. A tugboat of about 300 h.p., two launches an old landing craft and several junks were also moored here.
		acilities. Three very old, small cranes of between 2.5 to 3 tons were on the southern pier at the harbor entrance. A tugboat of about 300 h.p., two law launches an old landing craft and several junks were also moored here. In a north side of the breakwater had a thoroughfare to a new narpor passin which had a stone pier, about 350 meters long, but no other facilities. The outer
10.	8.	acilities. Three very old, small cranes of between 2.5 to 3 tons were on the southern pier at the harbor entrance. A tugboat of about 300 h.p., two new launches, an old landing craft and several junks were also moored here. Interpretation of the breakwater had a thoroughfare to a new narpor passin which had a stone pier, about 350 meters long, but no other facilities. The outer preakwater of this harbor basin appeared less strong than the old one. All loading operations were performed smoothly by Chinese coolies who were reall treated, well clad, and worked hard without being spurred. There were not the southern of the second sec
	8.	acilities. Three very old, small cranes of between 2.5 to 3 tons were on the southern pier at the harbor entrance. A tugboat of about 300 h.p., two new launches, an old landing craft and several junks were also moored here. In north ide of the breakwater had a thoroughfare to a new narpor pasin which had a stone pier, about 350 meters long, but no other facilities. The outer preakwater of this harbor basin appeared less strong than the old one. All loading operations were performed smoothly by Chinese coolies who were reall treated, well clad, and worked hard without being spurred. There were not the southern specific treated, well clad, and worked hard without being spurred.
	8.	acilities. Three very old, small cranes of between 2.5 to 3 tons were on the southern pier at the harbor entrance. A tugboat of about 300 h.p., two new launches, an old landing craft and several junks were also moored here. Interpretation of the breakwater had a thoroughfare to a new narpor passin which had a stone pier, about 350 meters long, but no other facilities. The outer preakwater of this harbor basin appeared less strong than the old one. All loading operations were performed smoothly by Chinese coolies who were reall treated, well clad, and worked hard without being spurred. There were not the southern of the second sec
	8.	acilities. Three very old, small cranes of between 2.5 to 3 tons were on the southern pier at the harbor entrance. A tugboat of about 300 h.p., two new launches, an old landing craft and several junks were also moored here. The north dide of the breakwater had a thoroughfare to a new narpor passin which had a stone pier, about 350 meters long, but no other facilities. The outer preakwater of this harbor basin appeared less strong than the old one. All loading operations were performed smoothly by Chinese coolies who were reall treated, well clad, and worked hard without being spurred. There were not the southern are the second se

CONFIDENTIAL/CONTROL - U.S. OFFICIALS ONLY

and annual to the state of the
CONTET DENTITAT /CONTROL		TT C	OTTOTOTAT O	ONTE SE
CONFIDENTIAL/CONTROL	-	U. D.	OFF.LU LALS	UNLY	ı
•					l

-3-

25X1		There were aircraft on surveillance flights along the Chinese coast about 15 miles from the shore. They were twin engined, olive green planes with projecting noses which flew in groups of two at
25X1		an altitude of about 1,000 feet and at intervals of about three hours. Two groups of three planes were flying northeast and two groups of two planes were flying southwest. two large, twin masted junks, with canvas sails rather than bamboo mats, were cruising close to shore. The junks carried large crews and kept together when they executed maneuvers.
25X1	11.
25X1		The pier had low sheds and a railroad track
25X1		on each side, but no cranes.
	12.
		A tugboat, lighters and piledrivers, 4-5 junks, and several sampans were moored in a small basin to the right of the harbor entrance. Several hundred fishing boats were in the bay northwest and north of the pier. Although the harbor area was not fenced, shore parties had to follow a prescribed way to town. Daily shore leave was granted from 3 to 8 p.m Small quantities of beer and strong drinks were available at two small coffee houses. Chinese tea houses were off limits to foreign ship's crews. There were many policemen on patrol but no soldiers or military establishments were seen.

_.CONFIDENTIAL/CONTROL - U.S. OFFICIALS ONLY