1. The former Meinecke Factory, redesignated the Paris Commune Factory by the Poles, was located in Wroclaw-Karlowice (Breslau-Karlowitz). The plant was reconstructed and enlarged after the war. Prior to the German surrender in 1945, water meters were manufactured at the factory. This production was not resumed after the war.
2. In 1954, rough castings for artillery pieces were manufactured at the works. They were 50 to 55 cm. long, about 16 cm. in diameter, and had the shape of a shell. They were finished in one of the shops at the works. 25X1

[Redacted] Comment: [Redacted] also reported the production of small shells at this factory when it was known as the State Hydrometer Factory (Panstwowa Fabryka Wodomierzy). 25X1
