1. [redacted] ship was in the port of Arkhangelsk on 30 November 1953, three airfields in the vicinity of the Dvina River. One airfield was located on the southeastern side of Khabarka Island (N 64-35, E 40-28), opposite and slightly to the west of Solombala. The second airfield was located opposite and slightly to the west of Port Ekonomiya, that is, immediately south of the small branch of the river. The third airfield was located opposite and slightly to the west of the town of Kiziou (sic), which is located on a small island. 25X1
2. Twin-engine bombers were observed taking off and landing at these airfields. In addition, single-engined jet aircraft were seen flying over the area of the airfields, although none were observed landing or taking off from these fields. 25X1
3. Open-air lumber yards, which were located along the entire length of the river banks in front of the above airfields, impeded observation of the airfields from the river. 25X1
