B. Evaluation of the Concerned Officer:

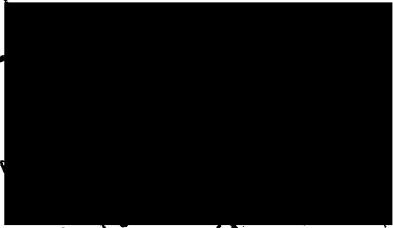

Chief, Intelligence School, OTR on 23 February 1957 briefly stated the following:

"As a result of the suggestion, which points up the fact that some individuals not suited to the requirements of the present four-week Intelligence Orientation are being enrolled in the course, we plan to check more carefully for students not qualified to undertake it. For those who need a brief orientation to the Agency, the one-day program presented by the OTR Orientation Officer will be used, and OTR will encourage waivers excusing craft employees and laborers from the four-week Intelligence Orientation."
