The Commander in Chief, Far East (CINCFE), was directed to exercise direct command over the conduct of those covert operations in support of combat operations in which U.S. forces are engaged (Korea). For all other covert operations undertaken within or without CINCFE's command, the senior Central Intelligence Agency representative will continue to operate under orders of the Director of Central Intelligence, but will provide CINCFE with timely information to insure local coordination and support, and to avoid any action which in CINCFE's judgment might interfere with or hamper the pursuit of his mission. Thus:
