Dear Mr. Mahon:

In accordance with your suggestion, I am enclosing a letter to you which you can forward to [redacted]

STAT

Your evaluation of [redacted] situation was accurate. Most of our positions beyond the clerical level require at least a baccalaureate degree. There are a few for which special technical training or experience can be substituted, but these are not in the general investigative field in which [redacted] has prepared himself.

STAT

After receiving your letter, we made a second intensive review of [redacted] file to be sure that no possibility had been overlooked. This resulted in a quick check of one rather remote opportunity for his employment on a short-term contract basis. However, this did not materialize and my personnel people tell me that they see no other prospects for his joining us unless some new requirement arises.

Sincerely,

(signed) W. F. Raborn

Dear Mr. Mahon:

Thank you for writing to me on behalf of [redacted]

I have obtained a report on his application and find that he unfortunately does not have the academic background required to qualify for most of our positions. As you perhaps know, he has studied investigative techniques and has gained some experience in their use. However, we have no current openings which would take advantage of these particular qualifications and we do not anticipate such an opening in the foreseeable future.

It is difficult to turn down a man of [redacted] interest and enthusiasm for joining in our work. Unfortunately, though, we do not have at present an opportunity here for him.

Your inquiry about [redacted] application is appreciated and I hope this report will be helpful.

Sincerely,

(signed) W. F. Raborn
