MEMORANDUM FOR: The Honorable Chester Bowles
Under Secretary of State

The Honorable Roswell L. Gilpatric
Deputy Secretary of Defense

The Honorable McGeorge Bundy
Special Assistant to the President

The Honorable Elmer B. Staats
Deputy Director, Bureau of the Budget

The Honorable Edward R. Murrow
Director, United States Information Agency

At a recent meeting of our Thursday luncheon, a proposed letter from the President to certain Ambassadors abroad was circulated and subsequently under date of May 29, 1961, was dispatched. Under date of May 27 the President requested the heads of executive departments and agencies to instruct their representatives in the field in accordance with the President's letter of May 29 to the chiefs of diplomatic missions.

At the time of our consideration of this letter, I mentioned that there were certain intelligence operations which were regulated by National Security Council Directives. I also pointed out that when, under date of November 8, 1960, President Eisenhower had issued an Executive Order covering the role of our U. S. Diplomatic Missions Abroad and the coordinating role of the Chiefs of Mission, he had also issued a special confidential memorandum to the Secretary of State, Defense, and the Director of Central Intelligence, pointing out that the Executive Order was not intended "to supersede existing arrangements with respect to foreign intelligence activities, which are governed by National Security Council intelligence directives and other pertinent directives, regulations, and procedures."

NSC review(s) completed.

In discussing the advance draft of what became the President's letter of May 29, 1961, I pointed out that there should, in due course, be follow-up instructions dealing with the question of coordination of intelligence activities.

I append herewith for your convenience copies of the President's letters of May 27 and May 29, 1961; a proposed follow-up Presidential Memorandum to accomplish the objectives I have mentioned, and a copy of the somewhat corresponding actions which were taken by the President, dated November 8, 1960.

I should like to discuss these papers at our next Thursday luncheon.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE HEADS OF
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENTS AND AGENCIES

There is attached a copy of a letter which I have sent to each American Ambassador abroad. The fourth and fifth paragraphs on page three were omitted from the letter sent to countries where we do not have military forces.

On page three of this letter I state:

"I have informed all heads of departments and agencies of the Government of the responsibilities of the chiefs of American Diplomatic Missions for our combined operations abroad, and I have asked them to instruct their representatives in the field accordingly."

I shall appreciate your instructing representatives you may have in the field in accordance with the attached letter.

Dear Mr. Ambassador:

Please accept my best wishes for the successful accomplishment of your mission. As the personal representative of the President of the United States in you are part of a memorable tradition which began with Benjamin Franklin and Thomas Jefferson, and which has included many of our most distinguished citizens.

We are living in a critical moment in history. Powerful destructive forces are challenging the universal values which, for centuries, have inspired men of good will in all parts of the world.

If we are to make progress toward a prosperous community of nations in a world of peace, the United States must exercise the most affirmative and responsible leadership. Beyond our shores, this leadership, in large measure, must be provided by our ambassadors and their staffs.

I have asked you to represent our Government in because I am confident that you have the ability, dedication, and experience. The purpose of this letter is to define guidelines which I hope may be helpful to you.

The practice of modern diplomacy requires a close understanding not only of governments but also of people, their cultures and institutions. Therefore, I hope that you will plan your work so that you may have the time to travel extensively outside the nation's capital. Only in this way can you develop the close, personal associations that go beyond official diplomatic circles and maintain a sympathetic and accurate understanding of all segments of the country.

Moreover,

The Honorable

Moreover, the improved understanding which is so essential to a more peaceful and rational world is a two-way street. It is our task not only to understand what motivates others, but to give them a better understanding of what motivates us.

Many persons in who have never visited the United States, receive their principal impressions of our nation through their contact with Americans who come to their country either as private citizens or as government employees.

Therefore, the manner in which you and your staff personally conduct yourselves is of the utmost importance. This applies to the way in which you carry out your official duties and to the attitudes you and they bring to day-to-day contacts and associations.

It is an essential part of your task to create a climate of dignified, dedicated understanding, cooperation, and service in and around the Embassy.

In regard to your personal authority and responsibility, I shall count on you to oversee and coordinate all the activities of the United States Government in .

You are in charge of the entire United States Diplomatic Mission, and I shall expect you to supervise all of its operations. The Mission includes not only the personnel of the Department of State and the Foreign Service, but also the representatives of all other United States agencies which have programs or activities in . I shall give you full support and backing in carrying out your assignment.

Needless to say, the representatives of other agencies are expected to communicate directly with their offices here in Washington, and in the event of a decision by you in which they do not concur, they may ask to have the decision reviewed by a higher authority in Washington.

If in your judgment individual members of the Mission are not functioning effectively, you should take whatever action you feel may be required, reporting the circumstances, of course, to the Department of State.

In case the departure from of any individual member of the Mission is indicated in your judgment, I shall expect you to make the decision and see that it is carried into effect. Such instances I am confident will be rare.

Now one word about your relations to the military. As you know, the United States Diplomatic Mission includes Service Attaches, Military Assistance Advisory Groups and other Military components attached to the Mission. It does not, however, include United States military forces operating in the field where such forces are under the command of a United States area military commander. The line of authority to these forces runs from me, to the Secretary of Defense, to the Joint Chiefs of Staff in Washington and to the area commander in the field.

Although this means that the chief of the American Diplomatic Mission is not in the line of military command, nevertheless, as Chief of Mission, you should work closely with the appropriate area military commander to assure the full exchange of information. If it is your opinion that activities by the United States military forces may adversely affect our over-all relations with the people of government of you should promptly discuss the matter with the military commander and, if necessary, request a decision by higher authority.

I have informed all heads of departments and agencies of the Government of the responsibilities of the chiefs of American Diplomatic Missions for our combined operations abroad, and I have asked them to instruct their representatives in the field accordingly.

DRAFT

MEMORANDUM FOR: The Secretary of State
 The Secretary of Defense
 The Director, Central Intelligence Agency

On 27 May, I requested the heads of executive departments and agencies to instruct their representatives in the field in accordance with my letter of 29 May to our ambassadors.

In this connection, your attention is directed to Section 201 of Executive Order No. 10893, dated 8 November 1960, dealing with the Mutual Security Act of 1954, as amended. It reads as follows:

"Section 201. Functions of Chiefs of United States Diplomatic Missions.

The several Chiefs of the United States Diplomatic Missions in foreign countries, as the representatives of the President and acting on his behalf, shall have and exercise, to the extent permitted by law and in accordance with such instructions as the President may from time to time promulgate, affirmative responsibility for the coordination and supervision over the carrying out by agencies of their functions in the respective countries."

This section, my letter of 29 May, and your instructions to the field are not intended to supersede existing arrangements with respect to foreign intelligence activities, which are governed by National Security Council intelligence directives and other pertinent directives, regulations, and procedures.

DRAFT

November 8, 1960

TO THE HEADS OF EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENTS AND AGENCIES:

I have today signed an Executive order which is designed to carry out the provisions of the Mutual Security Act of 1954, as amended, and to provide for the administration of United States activities in foreign countries. I wish to direct particular attention to Part II of the order. The coordination and supervision of these activities is a most vital aspect of the conduct of our foreign affairs.

It is my desire that all appropriate steps be taken to assure that the Chief of the United States Diplomatic Mission is effective in discharging his role as the representative of the President. Therefore, I am instructing that, to the extent permitted by law and within the framework of established policies and programs of the United States, the Chief of Mission shall have and exercise affirmative responsibility for the coordination and supervision of all United States activities in the country to which he is accredited. It is expected that particular emphasis will be given to the following in the exercise of this authority: (1) the Chief of Mission will take affirmative responsibility for the development, coordination, and administration of diplomatic, informational, educational, and trade activities and programs; economic, technical and financial assistance; military assistance; and the disposal of surplus agricultural commodities abroad, (2) the Chief of Mission will assure compliance with standards established by higher authority, and will recommend appropriate changes in such standards and suggest desirable new standards, governing the personal conduct and the level of services and privileges accorded all United States civilian and military personnel stationed in the foreign country and report to the President upon adherence to such standards, and (3) the chief of Mission will establish procedures so that he is kept informed of United States activities in the country. He will report promptly to the President as to any matter which he considers to need correction and with respect to which he is not empowered to effect correction.

In order that there be full understanding of the above, it is my desire that the Chief of Mission be made fully aware of his responsibilities and authority with respect to United States activities, in the country to which he is assigned, under today's order and this memorandum. Not only should instructions be issued to the United States Missions; provision should also be made for complete instruction in these matters before a new Chief of Mission assumes his duties at his post. It is the responsibility of each agency concerned to participate in the indoctrination of each Chief of Mission and take steps within the agency to instruct its personnel as to the authority of the Chief of Mission and as to the necessity of keeping him fully informed concerning current and prospective program and administrative activities.

Steps should also be taken to provide the Chief of Mission with the necessary staff assistance so he can fully carry out the assigned tasks. The Director of the Bureau of the Budget is requested (1) to take the lead, in consultation with the Department of State and other interested agencies, in developing the most appropriate method of providing the required staff facilities at the country level, and of establishing such arrangements in Washington, as may be necessary to enable each Chief of Mission to carry out effectively his responsibilities as the representative of the President, and (2) to present to the President appropriate recommendations with respect to such facilities and arrangements.

The following prior Presidential documents (related to the subject of this memorandum or of today's Executive order), to the extent not previously rendered obsolete or otherwise inapplicable, are hereby superseded:

1. The June 1, 1953, memorandum regarding the reorganization of the Executive Branch for the conduct of foreign affairs.
2. The memorandum of three heads of departments and the Director for Mutual Security concerning the reorganization of the Special Representative in Europe, which was approved June 16, 1953.
3. The November 6, 1954, letter concerning Executive Order No: 10575, etc.
4. The April 15, 1955, letter to the Secretary of State concerning the establishment of the International Cooperation Administration, etc.
5. The July 24, 1956, memorandum concerning administration of overseas functions.

6. The November 19, 1959, memorandum concerning reports required by sections 111(a) and 111(b) of the Mutual Security Appropriation Act, 1960.

This memorandum shall be published in the Federal Register.

/s/ Dwight Eisenhower
