25X1 Meeting of the Executive Committee on 10/29 covered by penciled notes attached.

In addition McCone reported on four items in the attached Special Intelligence report of 10/29.

During the meeting there was some discussion Castro would remain in Cuba with a greater, rather than less, security and this was a situation we must be careful of. After the meeting McCone met briefly with the President and Secretary Rusk and emphasized this point. I believe there is an alertness to this situation but the anxiety to get the missiles out of Cuba seems to overshadow the importance of the over-all Castro problem and of the Soviets' determination to pursue their attempt to subvert all of Latin America.

There followed an extended discussion of operational matters, details of which are covered in the attached notes.

McCone brought up the problem of the USS OXFORD as covered by Blake memorandum of October 25th, Serial N 1623. It was decided that the location and the security of the OXFORD should be part of the responsibility of the blockade operation and therefore should be considered by Admiral Anderson and his staff.
