Department of Defense Directive

SUBJECT Electronics Intelligence (ELINT)

Reference: (a) NSCID No. 6, dated September 15, 1958

(b) DOD Dir. S-3115.2, "Electronics Intelligence (ELINT)," dated July 13, 1955 (cancelled by reference (c))

(c) DOD Dir. S-5100.20, "The National Security Agency"

I. PURPOSE

This Directive is issued for the purpose of implementing the ELINT provisions of reference (a).

II. DEFINITIONS

A. For the purposes of this Directive, ELINT activities are defined as the collection (observation and recording), and the technical processing for subsequent intelligence purposes, of information derived from foreign, non-communications, electromagnetic radiations emanating from other than atomic detonation or radioactive sources.

B. ELINT is the technical and intelligence-information product of ELINT activities.

III. POLICY

A. The Secretary of Defense has been designated as Executive Agent of the Government for the conduct of ELINT activities in accordance with the provisions of reference (a) and for the maintenance and operation of the National Security Agency (NSA). The Assistant to the Secretary of Defense (Special Operations) will exercise the authorities vested in the Secretary of Defense by reference (a) relating to the direction and control of NSA and related activities of the Department of Defense.

B. The ELINT mission of the National Security Agency shall be to provide an effective, unified organization and control of the ELINT intercept and processing activities of the United States, to provide for integrated operational policies and procedures pertaining thereto and to produce ELINT information in accordance with objectives, requirements and priorities established by the U. S. Intelligence Board. For these purposes all U. S. ELINT activities, except as otherwise specified herein, are placed under the operational and technical control of the Director, National Security Agency.

C. The Secretary of Defense will:

1. Establish the consolidated DOD budget, and requirements for military and civilian manpower, logistic and communications support, and research, development, test and evaluation for ELINT activities, and provide for inclusions as appropriate in the budgets and programs of the military departments and other Department of Defense agencies. With the collaboration of interested elements of the Department of Defense, the Assistant to the Secretary of Defense (Special Operations) will continually review the development and execution of ELINT plans and programs as a basis on which to provide for effective, efficient and economical management and operation and the elimination of undesirable duplication.
2. Determine the ELINT activities which are essential to provide support to commanders who plan and conduct military operations, and which must be directly assigned by the Secretary of Defense to provide an integral ELINT capability to such commanders; determine to what degree these activities should be integrated into the National ELINT program; and delegate the responsibility to conduct such activities to those commanders or to the cryptologic agencies which support them. Generally, such activities will include ELINT collection and processing activities integral to ferret aircraft operations, submarine and surface patrol operations, and ground combat surveillance operations.
3. In making the determinations and delegations referred to in paragraph 2 above, including subsequent changes, consideration will be given to specific proposals submitted by the Joint Chiefs of Staff, the military departments and other concerned agencies.

D. The military departments and the commanders of commands established by the Secretary of Defense will conduct such search, intercept, direction finding, range estimation, and signal analysis of non-communications electromagnetic radiations as must be undertaken to permit immediate operational use of the information in support of electronic warfare and rescue operations. With respect to these activities, it is noted that:

1. They have the following characteristics:
 - a. They are performed in direct and immediate support of operations conducted for other than intelligence purposes and are active only when the supported operations are underway. The term "operations," as used in this directive, includes training and test exercises, and is not confined to wartime activities.
 - b. They are performed by equipment which, though identical or similar to that used by ELINT units for intelligence purposes, is an essential component of the weapons system, facility, or activity which has an operational mission or objective.
2. Examples of such activities are those undertaken:
 - a. By ships and aircraft for navigational purposes and for their own protection.
 - b. For rescue operations.
 - c. For the support of active electronic countermeasures, counter-countermeasures, imitative communication and electronic deception, while those operations are being conducted.
 - d. By ships, aircraft, and/or ground units for detection, early warning, tracking, identification, target acquisition, or homing purposes, in connection with operations actually underway.
3. In the event data obtained by these activities is usable for intelligence purposes, these data should be provided, by the most expeditious means available, to the appropriate ELINT activity for further handling.

SECRET

E. Paragraph III.D. above should not be interpreted to mean that ELINT units which operate under the operational and technical control of the Director, National Security Agency, do not have a mission of direct and immediate intelligence support to operations which are being conducted.
