EVALUATION OF U.S. OPERATING PROGRAMS
RELATING TO INDIA

PROBLEM

1. To organize a study designed to assist future coordination of U.S. programs relating to India by evaluating those programs in terms of N.S.C. objectives and within the context of the total interplay of forces in the world struggle as they bear on India.

DISCUSSION

2. This project has evolved in discussions growing out of a memorandum from the Director of USIA to the Chairman of OCB, dated May 12, 1954, which proposed a comprehensive evaluative study of the world struggle. A pilot study focussed on one country is felt to be desirable as a first step in this direction. India is proposed as one of the most interesting and important countries which might be selected for the purpose: it is a major country in the major current "area of contestability". OCB has full authority for intensive concern with India because it is designated coordinating agency for NSC 5409, "South Asia".

3. Evaluations relating to India are already made or being made in various ways, for example: in NSC 5409 and the accompanying staff study for purposes of national policy formulation; by the operating agencies and the Bureau of the Budget as a basis for broad budgetary and programming decisions; by the intelligence community for pertinent intelligence estimates; by agency operators and the OCB Working Group on NSC 5409 as part of their daily business. The proposed study would supplement and integrate, not duplicate, these efforts. Its distinctive features would be:

a. It would be much closer to the specifics of operations than the pertinent NSC documents are.

b. Unlike the appraisals which agencies make of their own programs, it would provide an opportunity for interagency appraisal, thus affording a basis for more comprehensive judgments about future program priorities and coordination.

c. It would be far more intensive and extensive than the working group, necessarily absorbed in day-to-day operations, has time to do without assistance.

4. A sample outline of the proposed study is attached for illustrative purposes. It would seek to develop a consensus of judgment based on available expert knowledge, observations and analyses rather than launch further investigations and collections of data except where significant omissions are apparent. Hence two or three months time should prove sufficient.

5. The following method of staffing is proposed: The project should be assigned to the NSC 5409 Working Group assisted by a principal drafting officer furnished full-time by one of the member agencies. Each agency represented on the Working Group should designate an alternate member, if needed, to share the work-load. The Working Group should report after thirty days to the Board Assistants on how the project is shaping up and recommend any changes in the project which may seem desirable by that time. The Working Group's final report on the project should be submitted to the Executive Officer for subsequent processing by the Board Assistants. At an appropriate stage, the study should be sent to New Delhi for comment by the Ambassador.

RECOMMENDATION

6. It is recommended that the OCB approve the project as described above.
