I feel that it is a very good paper, and parallels our own thinking to an extraordinary degree.

In transmitting it, [Redacted] asked for my reaction, which I am drafting now and will circulate to you for your concurrence. However, before completing the reply to [Redacted] I had a thought on which I need your advice.

If you think that even this is too much, I can simply quote from pertinent passages paralleling the points covered in his paper.

I would greatly appreciate your reaction.
