The Braunnderfer-Strasse casernes are supposed to be evacuated, and already are partially, but will be occupied in other floviet units. An antitank unit has been removed from Berkenbrück, but there is still a large vehicle park at Berkenbrück. The other Soviet units are still in Fuerstenwalde. The departing Soviet troops, particularly officers, have sold many things, including furniture, quite cheaply to the German population. The officers could take only a limited amount of baggage with them, up to one tructhoad per officer, including family effects.
