I think we should discuss the perennial problem of getting support aspects recognized in the decision-making process. For example, the DCI recently approved the establishment of a CIA [REDACTED]. The memorandum recommending this approval was not staffed out by this Directorate. The decision to go ahead will cost us one (or two) OC positions and roughly $200,000 worth of equipment - none of which is in our FY-1974 or FY-1975 program.
